Colliers International's Links for Life Donates $1,500 to Miracle Flights

Funds will help fly sick children from Southern Nevada to life-changing medical care

Las Vegas – Colliers International Las Vegas and its charitable foundation Links for Life presented a check for $1,500 to locally based national medical flight charity Miracle Flights on Thursday, September 27. The donation will fund flights to help at least three critically ill children in Southern Nevada gain access to specialized medical care far from home.

“Since 1995, Links for Life has supported local nonprofits who share our goal of being a link of hope to disadvantaged children in Southern Nevada. As an organization committed to linking sick children with the doctors who can best treat them, Miracle Flights is a natural partner for us,” said Mike Mixer, founder of Links for Life Foundation. “We are honored to join Colliers International in making this donation to help Miracle Flights continue its efforts and positively impact the lives of local children.”

Established in 1985, Miracle Flights provides free flights to sick children who have been referred to out-of-state medical treatment by their local doctors. Commercial flights are coordinated at no cost to families, as many times as necessary.

“While Miracle Flights provides around 600 flights a month, for every child we fly, there’s one more living without the valuable treatment he or she needs, simply because a plane ticket is too expensive,” said Miracle Flights CEO Mark E. Brown. “We are thankful to Colliers and Links for Life Foundation for recognizing the significance of Miracle Flights’ mission and so generously supporting our efforts to help families in our community find a cure for distance.”
